Master of Education in Applied Technology, Training and Development

Master of Education

The Master of Education with a major in Applied Technology, Training and Development is a 36-hour program. This is the recommended degree for those seeking employment in the educational area.

Required for Major

- ATTD 5160: Advanced Computer Applications in Education and Training
- ATTD 5140: Work-based Learning in CATE
- ATTD 5120: Instructional Strategies
- ATTD 5110: Instructional Design in CATE
- ATTD 5440: Facilitation Strategies in ATTD
- ATTD 5480: Research Techniques in ATTD
- ATTD 5130: Roles and Responsibilities/Class Management
- ATTD 6450: Needs Analysis in ATTD
- EPSY 5210: Educational Statistics
- 6 hours of courses outside the program.

Additional Requirements

Two years of work experience related to one of the certificate areas in Career and Technology Education (Health Science Technology Education, Marketing Education, Trade and Industrial Education) or 6 hours of internship (ATTD 6030) as well as ATTD 5140, ATTD 5430 and ATTD 5500 as leveling courses (in addition to minimum degree requirements) are required.

Interesting Facts

UNT has the highest teacher education admission standards and graduation requirements in the state and is nationally among the highest in its requirements.

Admission

Applicants must meet all requirements for admission to the Graduate School and the program in Applied Technology, Training and Development.

GRE

A satisfactory verbal and quantitative score on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) is required for admission to this degree program. Students may enroll for one semester without an approved score.

Undergraduate

Students must have an undergraduate degree in Career and Technology
Degree
Education or a closely related field.

Mission
The mission of the Learning Technologies Department is to establish a learning community of professionals who are committed to high standard of people and organizational development through effective education and training of the world's workforce.

Evaluation Seminar (ATTD 5720)
The Graduate School requires that degree candidates in non-thesis programs successfully complete an exit seminar during the last semester of enrollment.

Availability of Courses
Courses are offered one night/week (5:30-8:30 pm), on selected evenings identified by the instructor, or via internet.

Availability of corporate training certificates
Basic and advanced Corporate Training Certificates are also available. Please contact department office for details.

For additional Information www.lt.unt.edu. Click on Degree Programs. Click on Masters. Download Masters Degree Admissions.

Dr. Michelle Wircenski
Masters Advisor
3940 N. Elm, G150
Denton, TX 76207-7102
Mickey.Wircenski@unt.edu
(940) 369-7704